CALL FOR EXTERNAL RESEARCH ADVISORS

Agribusiness Solutions Hub (ASH) is a consultancy firm providing a range of services to agriculture and food industry, and public policymakers in Somalia. Our consultancy services include technical advice, training and research.

We forecast a substantial growth in our research services in the next year or so. One of the potential challenges we may face is that there is a limited availability of relevant research expertise locally, especially for our research in agricultural economics. Therefore, we would like to identify external advisors to support our future research on project basis.

Support needed is likely to vary from project to project but it would be mostly around advice on design of methodology, analysis of data, and review of reports and papers. Main areas of our research focus are:

- Dynamics of agricultural inputs use, technological change, and productivity growth.
- Linkages in the food security, nutrition and health.
- Household poverty dynamics and resilience against shocks.

We will offer advisers a consultancy fee and the opportunity to co-author any papers from projects they supported. We anticipate that advisors would be able to provide their support remotely and as such would not need to travel to Somalia.

Please do not hesitate to email me if you would like to support our research or need further information.
